Combined Health Agencies does not charge dues to its member agencies.

100% of all agency-designated dollars received from the CFC are passed directly to member agencies without service charge.

Combined Health Agencies partners with United Way of San Diego in the United Way/CHAD Campaign. A share of the undesignated dollars received from the workplace campaign covers all operating expenses.

Although Combined Health Agencies does not provide direct programs and services to the general public, member agencies serve the San Diego community by providing public and professional education, client and community services and funding for research projects.

Leadership Message

Combined Health Agencies' commitment to San Diego remains constant; our goal stands unwavering -- to help people make educated decisions about how they contribute their money, to support better health in our community, and to give every resident access to an improved quality of life for themselves and their loved ones.

Today, our 26 Member agencies are steadfast in their commitment to the mission of CHA:

"To improve our community's health by supporting member agencies through individual and corporate giving."

Combined Health Agencies continues to maintain its strong partnership with the United Way of San Diego County. The United Way/CHAD Campaign remains the premiere choice for workplace giving. The workplace contributions in the past and this year demonstrate that our community recognizes the vital role our agencies play in the health of the San Diego community. During the last year, Combined Health Agencies measurably addressed the health needs of our community, distributing nearly one million dollars to Member agencies. These dollars helped our Member agencies fund research and essential programs which improve the quality of life for thousands of San Diegans.

As we look to the future, Combined Health Agencies will see changes, including an innovative energy headed by our newly hired president, Susan Day, a greater focus on fund raising and a more resourceful website.

It has been a privilege to serve Combined Health Agencies over the last three years, and I am confident that the growth of our agencies' impact in the community will continue.

Sincerely,

Tony Mahavier
Board Chairman
2005-2006
